Historical Performance

- Evolved from single drive-in to global fast-food empire
 - Strategic innovations
 - Franchising
 - Real estate ownership
 - Global expansion

Foundational Phase (1940s - 1950s)

- 1948: Reopened as streamlined burger joint
 - Eliminated carhops and focused on speed and efficiency ("Speedee Service System")
- 1955: Kroc opened first franchised location in Illinois (Iconic golden arches)
 - First-day sales of $366.12
- 1956–1959: Introduction of “Sonneborn model”
 - Owning or leasing real estate and charging franchisees rent

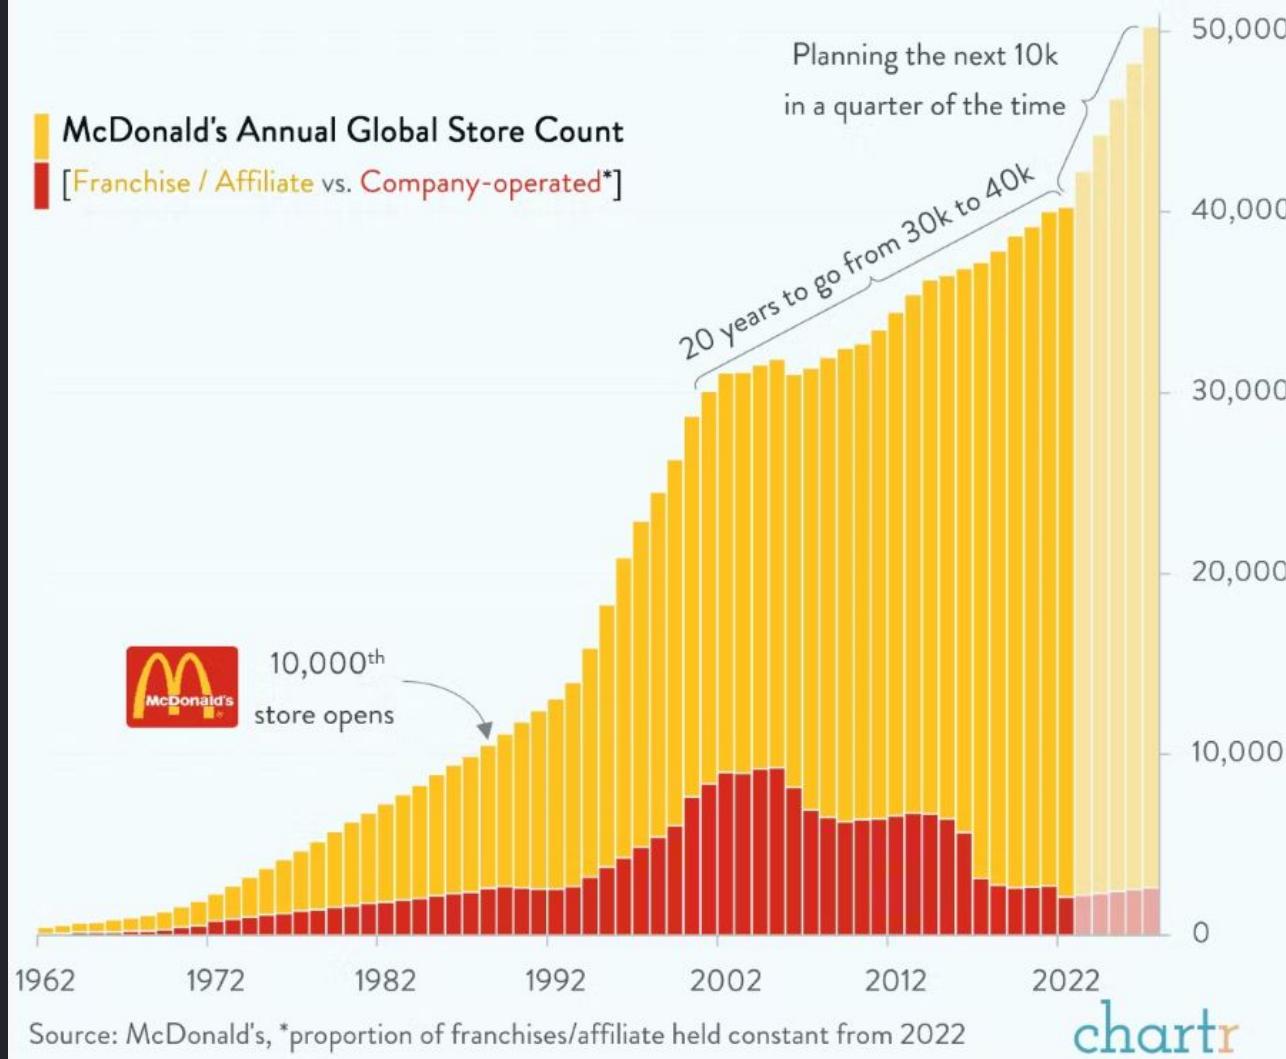

Growth Phase (1960s - 1990s)

- 1965: Went public at $22.50/share
 - 700 restaurants - franchising model minimized capital expenditure while generating royalties and rent
- 1967: International expansion began with Canada and Puerto Rico
- 1980s: Openings in Singapore (1979), Malaysia (1982), and Mexico (1985)
 - Stock grew over tenfold by 1980s driven by consistent revenue growth and dividend payments
- 1981: Earnings per share (EPS) grew at 10.6% compound annual growth rate (CAGR)

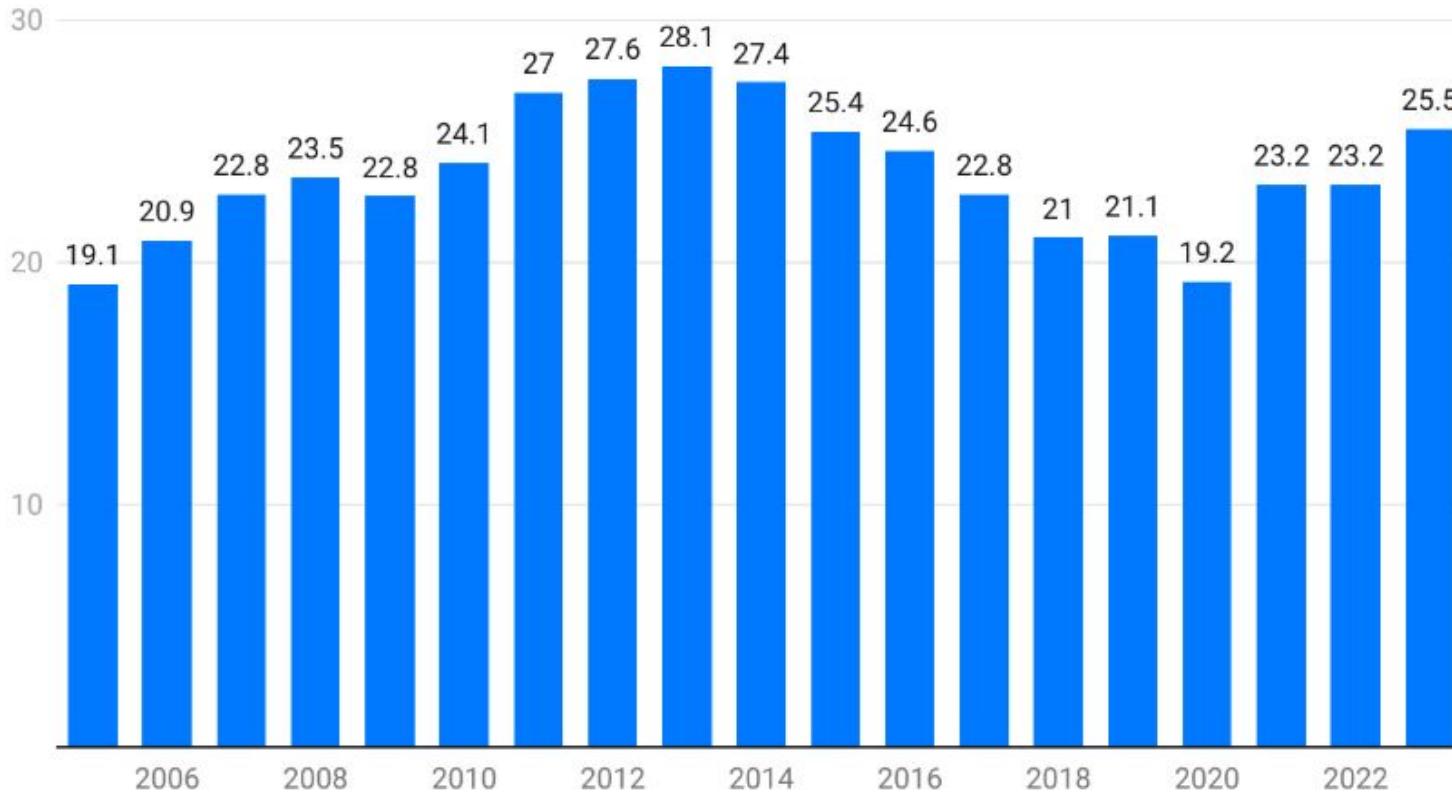

Financial Expansion (2000s - Present)

- 2005: McDonald's revenue was $19.06 billion
- 2008–2009 financial crisis impacted sales
 - Remained profitable due to low-cost model
- 2010: $24.075B annual revenue
- Pandemic Resilience: Revenue dropped to $19.208B in 2020 but rebounded to $23.223B in 2021

- 2024: Operated over 19,300 restaurants in 125 countries (half in U.S.)
- Market share: Remains at ~19% vs. McDonald's (~42%)
 - Sales growth now trails competitors like Wendy's

Wendy's Historical Performance

- 1969: Dave Thomas opened first Wendy's
 - Menu: hamburgers, chili, fries
- 1970s: Expanded rapidly
 - Opened 1,000th store within decade
- 1979: Entered Europe (Munich, West Germany) and Asia (Japan, Hong Kong, Philippines, Singapore)
- 1985: Record earnings of $76.2 million
- 1994: Achieved record systemwide sales of $4.2 billion (25th anniversary)
- 2023: Operated 7,166 locations (83% in the U.S)
 - Differentiates with fresh ingredients, quality, and being family-friendly

Recent Strategic Developments

The Loyalty Revolution:

- Behind that $20 billion in loyalty sales are millions of regular customers collecting points for free fries and McNuggets.
- That 45% jump means people aren't just downloading the app – they're actually using it more and more for their weekly McDonald's runs
- For many families, those loyalty rewards have turned occasional visits into regular rituals – "It's Friday, time to use our points for a free Happy Meal!"

The Digital Shift:

- What started as a simple ordering app has evolved into something that actually remembers you prefer no pickles and extra ketchup
- Parents pressed for time can now order their family's dinner while still at soccer practice and have it ready when they arrive
- The personalized offers feel less like generic coupons and more like McDonald's saying "we noticed you love breakfast – here's a deal on your favorite McMuffin"

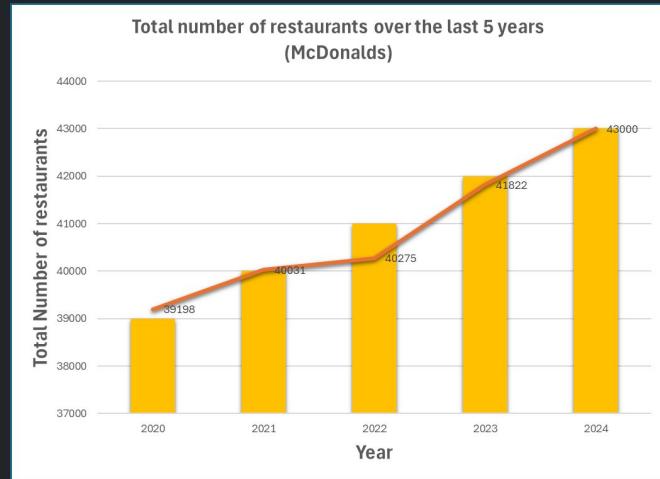

Recent Strategic Developments

Accelerated Restaurant Development:

- In 2024, McDonald's opened 2,116 new restaurants and closed 461, resulting in a net addition of 1,655 locations.
- The increase in restaurant openings led to a rise in capital expenditures, which grew by $418 million, or 18%, in 2024 compared to the previous year. This investment reflects the company's commitment to expanding its global footprint.

Other Strategic Developments

- Addressing Declining Sales: In response to declining sales and customer sensitivity to high prices, McDonald's announced the 'McValue' program for 2025. This initiative includes a $5 value meal promotion and other deals aimed at providing affordable options to customers.
- Strategic Response to Geopolitical Events : In 2022, McDonald's sold its Russian business, leading to the closure of approximately 850 restaurants. This decision was a response to the ongoing war in the region and had significant implications for the company's revenue and asset base.

Recent Events Comparison

McDonald's

- Massive Expansion: Opened 2,100+ new restaurants in 2024, fastest growth in company history.
- $5 McValue Program: Launched in 2025 to address inflation concerns and slowing traffic, reviving the value menu.

Burger King (RBI)

- Reclaim the Flame: Ongoing $400M investment plan to revamp U.S. stores, menus, and marketing.
- International Outperformance: Growth in Latin America and Asia offsets stagnation in U.S. operations.

Wendy's

- FreshAI Launch: Piloted voice-AI drive-thru ordering in 200+ locations to improve speed and consistency.
- Global Push: Signed new franchise deals to expand into India and Australia, continuing its international growth ambitions.

Conclusion

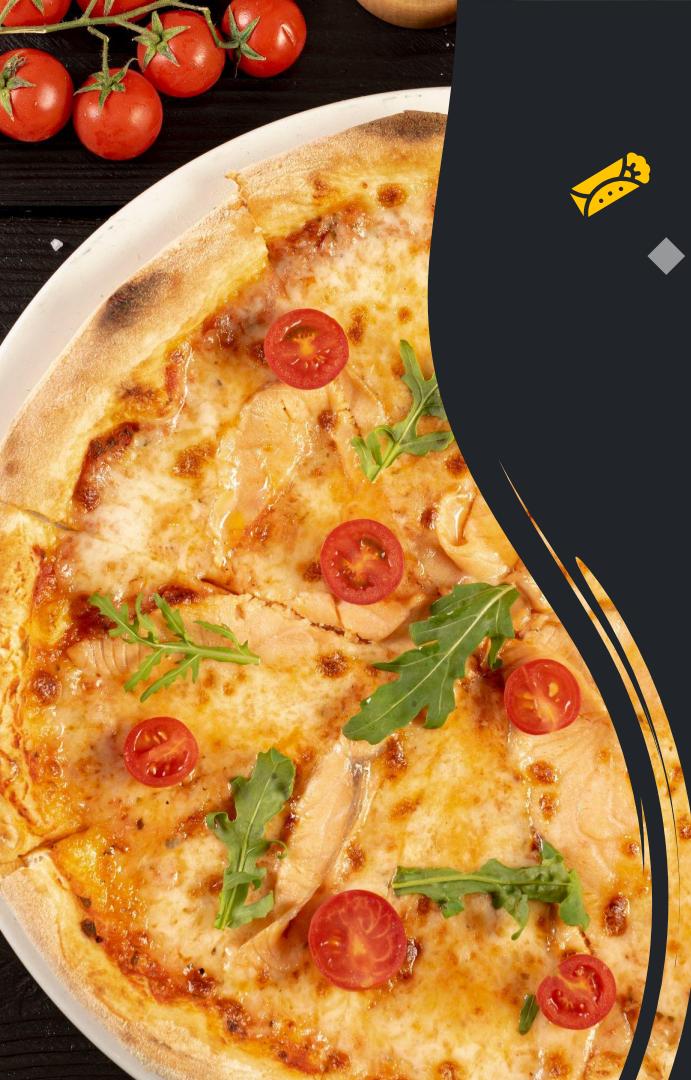

In 2025, McDonald's clearly stands out as the most profitable and operationally efficient player in the fast food industry, with the highest margins, return on equity, and global scale. However, this performance comes with a cost: a highly leveraged capital structure that introduces financial risk.

However!

Despite their differences, all three companies are moving in the same direction: embracing technology, expanding globally through franchising, and using AI and digital tools to drive long-term customer engagement.

Thanks!
